QUESTIONS FOR SMALL GROUP DISCUSSION AND PERSONAL REFLECTION:

1. Aaron suggested we should broaden our vision of “work” to include all of our labor: what we do for pay, what we do for family and neighbors, our passion projects, etc. With this broad definition in mind, what is your “work” right now?
2. How are you experiencing that work? Are you experiencing weariness, burnout, etc.? In what ways is that work life-giving, God-honoring and healthy?
3. A central point of the sermon was that we were meant to do meaningful work. What do you think about that?
  - According to the Bible, work isn’t a curse. Do you agree with that? Why or why not?
  - Work is not a curse, but it is cursed. Sin caused work to be burdensome and wearying. Why is this distinction important for us?
4. Jesus took on the curse of sin for us—every part of it. We talk a lot about how He died in our place. And how He took our guilt. But in John 4 we see that He also took on the curse of weariness and exhaustion from His work. What difference does that make for us? What are some of the implications for our faith and the way we approach our daily work?
5. Take time to pray as a group, asking God to heal your weariness and to give you hope for a future with weary-less work. If anyone in your group is struggling to see how God has created them for or called them to meaningful work, pray for a clear sense of calling for that person.
